FIRST IN RESULTS TO ADVERTISERS NUMBER 46

Board Estimates 1947-48 Budget Now at $107,348

Changes May Be Made Before Passage; Increase is About $11,000

Members of the village board sat as a committee of the whole in their adjourned session Tuesday night in making their budget for the ensuing year and came up with a total of $107,348.

This might be considered alarming in view of the $84,348 last year, but the difference is explained in the $35,000 appropriation for the sewage disposal system, $25,000 for construction of a new fire department building and $8,000 for new fire equipment.

There is an $11,000 increase, however, in general expenses which is accounted for in increased salaries and cost of materials.

While the whole budget is subject to scrutiny by the village attorney and review before it becomes an ordinance, certain changes over last year are evident.

Increase of the clerk's salary from $600 to $1,200 because of increased responsibilities is one item, and an increase in the salary of the police between $100 and $200 appears to be another.

Informed that the totals showed an increase of more than $10,000, President George B. Bartlett wistfully commented that it was due to a new board.

The measure with any changes the board sees fit to make will be brought up for passage the next meeting.

The board passed an ordinance calling for a total of 18 1-3 cents tax for street and bridge purposes the same as last year. Trouble in the past has been that the levy was not passed soon enough and the board is attempting to beat the deadline this year.

Motorboat Races to Be Held on Pistakee Lake

The second motor boat regatta of the season in the Chain O' Lakes region will be held Sunday at the Helvetia hotel on Pistakee lake.

Several more boats beyond those entered two weeks ago in the races at Oak Park are expected to participate in the Class B event.

The "Chickie," the "Viking," the "Hornet" and the "Hex" are expected to take up their annual battle in which the "Chickie" was the first to chalk up points at the first meet of the year two weeks ago.

There will be races in the 95 h. p. class, and the 103 class of inboard motors. There will be several outboard events. The C service, C novice and free-for-all will be included in the outboard contests.

New Version of Story Of Fish That Got Away Told by Editor and Pals

There are all kinds of stories about the fish that got away, but it has taken the editor of the Antioch News and his party to put an entirely different slant on the age-old excuse.

Howard and Harold Gaston, Calvin Hardin, and Ben Maki arrived home Saturday from a two week's fishing trip at Manomin lake, near the west arm of Eagle lake in Ontario, Canada. They had successful fishing and brought a few big ones back but the reason they didn't bring as many back as last year is given in the following story.

The four caught all they wanted to eat and lay a few by in a live box each day. The live box was built of stones at the edge of the lake.

On the day before they returned home there was a terrific big rain. There was no possibility of fishing that day and the men sat in their tents, smoking and visiting. After the rain they went to the lake only to find that despite the fact that the big body of water has a river-like outlet of falls, it had raised more than a foot and nearly all of the fish had swum out over the live box. And that's their story.

Baby Staying With Aunt

Billie Ream, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Ream, of Antioch, is staying with his great aunt, Mrs. Henry Rentner, while his father is in the hospital. Mr. Ream is in the Edward Hines hospital, Maywood, Ill., owing to a back injury.

Parking Meters Prevent Baby Buggies Passing In Front of Village Park

Village trustees in charge of the installation of parking meters received the praise of President George Bartlett for the good work done.

Scarcely had the praise been uttered when complaint was made that the meters were so far in on the sidewalk in front of the park that women could not squeeze baby buggies through between the meter posts and trees.

There was the alternative of cutting down the trees or changing the sidewalk because the meters could not be moved closer to the street on account of contacts with car bumpers.

The decision of the trustees was to order sidewalks around the trees. "Make them wide enough for twin-size buggies," said Bartlett.

Effort to End Speeding Results in Double Fight

An effort to stop unrestricted speeding in Grass Lake channel Saturday evening resulted in the arrest of Tony Esposito and his wife, Jean, on charges of assault and battery.

Esposito's speeding drew remonstrations from Fred Franklin, president of the Grass Lake Improvement association. The motorist grounded his craft in front of Franklin's cottage and started to fight Franklin. Mrs. Franklin went to her husband's aid and the two drove Esposito off.

Then Esposito returned accompanied by his wife and again attacked the Franklins. Deputies summoned by Franklin's neighbors stopped the fight. Charges were then filed against the Espositos in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray J. Reardon, in Waukegan.

Keulman House Burned by Fire Department to Eliminate Fire Hazard

The old William Keulman residence, a landmark that survived the disastrous fire which destroyed several Main st. buildings many years ago was a victim itself of fire Sunday afternoon.

Considered a hazard and ordered destroyed by village officials the building was burned by members of the village fire department. It stood at the rear of the Keulman store and in recent years had gained the name of Blackstone hotel because of its use by transients as a place to sleep.

It had become so badly deteriorated lately that it had very little or no value.

Firemen tossed some oil into it and then applied the match, standing by to see that it did not set fire to any surrounding property. So dry were the timbers that they burned like match sticks, not even falling in or leaving any charred remains.

To the Keulmans there was much attachment to the building. It was the place where the children were all born.

120 Outboard Drivers To Race in Speedboat Regatta at Kenosha, Wis.

More than 120 outboard drivers will churn the waters of Lake Michigan on Sunday afternoon, June 29, in the third annual Speedboat Regatta sponsored by the Kenosha Junior Chamber of Commerce. The field will be fighting it out for the Wisconsin State Championship in Kenosha.

Seven classes of boats will race for gold and points in this event sanctioned by the American Power Boat association. The gold will be the $1,250 in prize money to be split among the winners and points will go toward determining America's outboard driving champion.

On hand to defend their laurels will be such noted drivers as Bud Finkl, of Evanston, Illinois, present national champion; Paul Weary, of Muncie, Indiana and Ted Benda, Villa Park, Illinois, winners of the recent Chicago Tribune regatta.

All races will be run over a quarter mile course which means plenty of spills and thrills as the boats attempt to negotiate the tricky turns at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Outboard divisions are based on horsepower of the boats. At full speed in any class the boats are two-thirds out of the water. Boats entered in the Kenosha races can attain speeds up to 70 miles per hour.

Rev. Warren C. Henslee, Pastor Methodist Church Will Retire from Ministry

To End 43 Years of Service
At Conference in Rockford Next Week

The Rev. Warren C. Henslee, for ten years pastor of the Antioch Methodist church, will retire from ministry at the annual Rock River conference in Rockford next week.

After 43 years of service in the ministry Mr. Henslee has reached the age of 72 when laws of his church make retirement necessary. He has not made his plans for the future.

A native of Kansas, the Rev. Mr. Henslee entered the ministry in the Kansas Northwest conference. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Wilson at Norton, Kan. in 1904, and ordained an elder by Bishop McDowell at Plainville, Kan. in 1910.

His education was started late in life. At the age of 32 he entered an academy, comparable to a high school, and from there went to Kansas Wesleyan university where he was graduated. His advanced ministerial training was at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston.

Knew Many Hardships

As a ministerial student supporting a family Mr. Henslee knew real hardships. With an income of $24 he was able to pay $12 a month rent for three rooms and buy food. His money was earned mowing lawns and similar work outside of classes. His son in the lower grades walked to school with him.

Starting his ministry in Kansas, Mr. Henslee transferred to the Northwest Indiana conference in 1917, serving at Francisville, McHenryville and Hammond. From Hammond he transferred to the Rock River conference in Illinois in 1923.

In this conference he served the Douglas Park, Chicago, church two years; Franklin Park, Ill., church four years; and Clearing church, Chicago, seven years before his appointment to Antioch in 1937.

Gave Many Services
Since coming to Antioch he has performed approximately 160 funeral services, 90 per cent of which were of persons over 50 years of age. One person had passed the century mark. His weddings number between 80 and 100.

His work not only in his church but in the Masonic lodge and in community affairs has brought him and his wife many friends who will miss them in their activities.

The son, R. L. Henslee, is a decorator living in Florida.

Rainy Season Delays Corn Planting and Raises Lakes 2 Feet

Three months of intermittent rains have raised the waters of the Chain O' Lakes region to their greatest height in many years and have delayed corn planting three weeks or more.

The waters of the Fox river chain of lakes are up 22 inches covering most of the piers at the resorts.

Farmers have been taking advantage of every bit of dry weather between rains to get in some of their crops. Only about 25 per cent of the corn is in and it will be some time before some of the low lands will be fit for use.

Rain on Tuesday gave way to fair weather on Wednesday but more rain is promised for today. There have been few days without rain.

Demonstration School Conducted at Grayslake

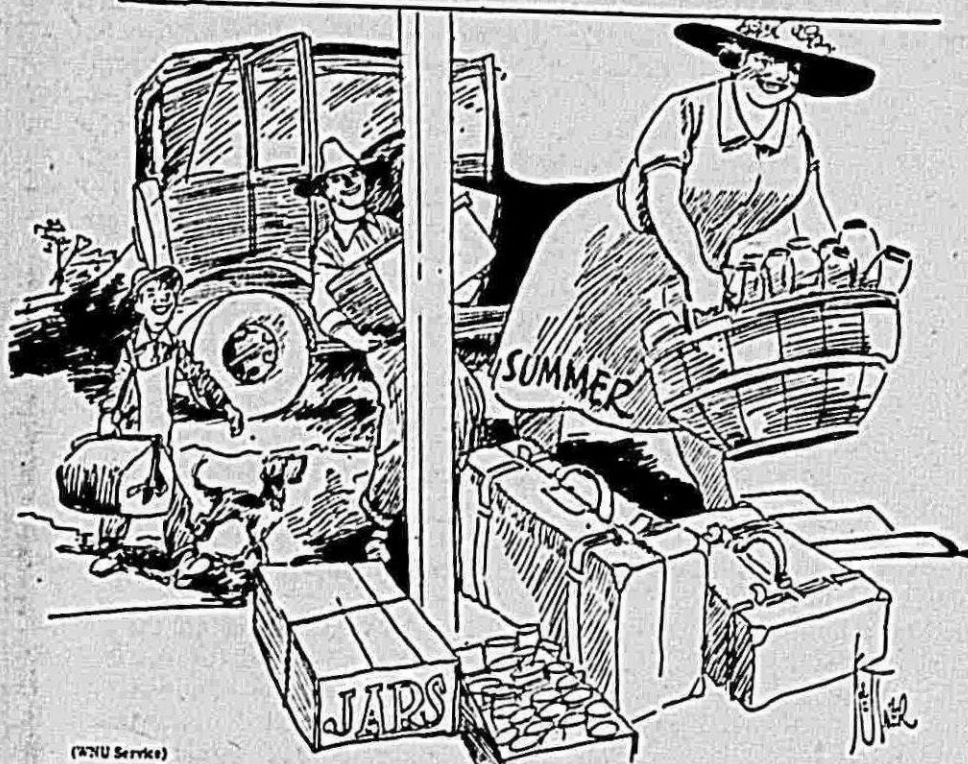

A demonstration school was conducted at the Home Bureau office, in Grayslake, the afternoon of June 17. Mrs. Helen Volk, county home adviser, led the discussion on what constitutes a good demonstration.

A demonstration on "Baking Powder Biscuits" was given by Nancy Hornemeyer of the Libertyville Homemakers club. Jane Lux of the Wadsworth Workers gave a demonstration on "Making Muffins."

Mrs. Volk gave two demonstrations one on "Making Milk Drinks" and the other on "Making Custard." These demonstrations were used as a basis for the discussion.

This work was in preparation for the County Girls' 4-H Show where a demonstration contest will be held on Aug. 6 at Warren Township High school. The six winning demonstrators at the county show will win a trip to state fair at Springfield, where they will compete with 4-H girls from other counties in the state.

Summer Arrives

Fox Lake Votes Against Bond Issue to Construct Sewage Disposal Plant

Fox Lake replied a decisive "No" to the question of whether $249,000 worth of bonds should be issued to pay for a sewage disposal system, when voters went to the polls Tuesday.

The vote was 49 for and 373 against.

Rain caused a light vote, especially from those who would have been expected to favor the measure.

Belief that the bond issue would not be sufficient to carry the mains to all parts of the village caused those who thought they would not benefit to oppose the measure.

Police Tickets Passed Out Freely as Motorists Forget Parking Meters

The new parking meters were doing all that was expected of them by the village board.

They gave visitors a place to park and through parallel parking improved traffic conditions.

Many persons, not used to the meters, drew parking tickets and it was estimated that the police are issuing more than 25 tickets a day. Most of the trouble is overtime parking, but there are instances when motorists put money in meters not directly in front of their car, or failed to "wind the clock." The latter seldom draws a penalty.

The village is paying for the meters on a percentage basis. A maintenance charge of 25 cents is first taken out of the receipts, the manufacturer gets his 75 per cent until the meter is paid for, and the rest goes to the village. The board has not decided where the profit will be placed.

All-day parkers are now seeking alleyways and side streets for their parking to avoid the cost and inconvenience of the meters, thereby leaving room for shoppers.

E. C. Proctor Dies in Wisconsin June 10

Edward C. Proctor born Aug. 26, 1875 in Antioch, where he lived until about 18 years ago, when he went north, living near Chetek, Wis. for a short time, then moving to Weyerhaeuser. On June 4th, he suffered a severe heart attack, and was taken to the Ladysmith hospital, where he passed away June 10.

Preceding him in death was his father, mother, one sister, Mrs. Flora Horton, two brothers, Norris, of Chetek and Hiram, of Owen, Wis.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Horton, of Antioch and Mrs. Dell Bell, of Chicago; also a number of nieces and nephews.

Supervised Playground Arranged for Antioch Children This Summer

Eleanor Forster, Trevor,
Will Be in Charge of 6-Week Program

Supervised play for Antioch children this summer has been arranged.

Starting June 23 when registration will take place, an outdoor program from Monday through Friday will be conducted until Aug. 1. One afternoon each week will be devoted to handicraft for the older children.

Last minute arrangements were made with Miss Eleanor Forster, of Trevor, to supervise the program. Scheduled to teach swimming in Wisconsin this summer, Miss Forster, a school teacher, changed her plans after a death in the family made it advisable to spend the summer at home with her mother.

The program is being sponsored by the grade school Parent Teacher association. The special events during the season call for a bicycle trip, hikes, picnics, treasure hunt, swimming, cook-outs and ball games.

The daily schedule follows:
9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m.—Pre-school through first grade.

10:30 to 12 noon—Second and third grades.

1 to 4 p. m.—Fourth grade through eighth grade.

All Antioch children of these ages may take part.

Legion Summer Carnival Set for July 10-13, and Lion Carnival Aug. 28-31

A summer carnival sponsored by the American Legion and a fall carnival sponsored by the Lions club are in store for Antioch amusement seekers.

The Legion carnival will be from July 10 to 13 inclusive. The rides will be provided by the Skinner Amusement Co. of Crystal Lake, and the stands by Henry Ruggles of Elgin.

The carnival probably will be set up on the Ackerman grounds near the water tower. This will give plenty of space for parking for those coming into the village from a distance. The rides will include the ferris wheel, merry-go-round, tilt-a-whirl, and one or two other modern rides.

Two Antioch 4-H Girls To Join 200 Campers at Rockford June 24 to 27

They are among representatives of 12 Lake County 4-H clubs who are joining club representatives from eight other counties in a crowd of 200 campers.

Mrs. Helen Volk, Lake County Home adviser, is director of this year's camp. Mrs. Meredith Hendricks again will serve as camp nurse, and Mrs. O. E. Meyers will accompany the Lake county girls as cabin leader.

The camp program will consist of classes in swimming, handicraft, nature lore, good grooming, recreation, dramatics, and singing.

The girls will be expected to bring home to their own club that which they learn at camp.

Georgia Stephens will represent the Millburn Maldens and Ruth Rafter and Marion Miller the Jolly Jills.

Grass Lake District Voted $62,000 Bond Issue for New School

Referendum Provides Total
Of $132,000 For New Building

By a two to one vote Grass Lake School district No. 36 on Tuesday approved a second bond issue amounting to $62,000 whereby a new school building may be built.

Of the 163 votes cast, 104 favored the plan and 54 opposed. Five ballots were spoiled.

The first referendum authorized the issuance of $70,000 in bonds, making the total $132,000.

Walter Forbrich, secretary of the board, said that steps would be taken immediately by the attorney and architect to arrange for the construction of the building. Because of the limit of bonded indebtedness, the district cannot erect as complete a building as it had planned, so the gymnasium and auditorium will be omitted.

School patrons found it more advantageous to put up a building to take care of an expanding enrollment than to consolidate with another district. The present building accommodates 40 pupils and the enrollment this fall is expected to be 100.

It is hoped by the board that the building will be completed in time for the opening of school. It will be on the high ground near the present site overlooking the lake area.

Kufalk and Henslee Will Attend Annual Methodist Conference at Rockford

Roy I. Kufalk, lay delegate from the Antioch Methodist church, and the Rev. Warren C. Henslee, will attend the 108th annual Rock River conference of the Methodist church in Rockford, Ill., starting next Wednesday.

Bishop J. Ralph Magee, resident bishop, will preside at all business sessions of the conference which includes 391 churches and represents more than 155,000 Methodists in Northern Illinois.

The bishop will lead the devotional addresses and Dr. Ralph W. Soekman, minister of the National Radio pulpit, heard over NBC will give the afternoon lectures.

Other speakers of note are Dr. T. Z. Koo, secretary of the World Christian Federation; Mrs. J. D. Bragg, St. Louis, national president of the Women's Society of Christian service; Dr. Roy L. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate; Ray H. Nichols, Vernon, Tex., editor and head of the Methodist Layman movement.

The closing session, beginning at 3 p. m. Sunday, June 29 will include ordination of ministers recognition of retiring ministers and the reading of appointments in which Antioch's new minister will be announced.

Furniture Refinishing School Sponsored By Lake Co. Home Bureau

A furniture refinishing school sponsored by the Lake County Home bureau was held at the Libertyville Episcopal Church, today. Thirty-four people brought pieces of furniture to refinish. Miss Dorothy Iwig, Home Furnishing specialist, University of Illinois, gave a lesson on proper methods to use in refinishing. She then supervised the work the women were doing.

Mrs. Helen Volk, county home adviser, and Mr. Ray Nicholas, county farm adviser, assisted with the project. Mr. Nicholas took a series of pictures showing the various steps in the procedure. These will be used in a bulletin which will be prepared for distribution.

Eye Operation On Marcia Kulp, Four Years Old, Success

The bandages which have covered the eyes of small Marcia Kulp, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kulp, of Antioch, were removed on Monday and there is every reason to believe that the operation which was performed on June 6 was a complete success and that Marcia's sight will be completely normal. Dr. Harold J. Koch, of Chicago, performed the delicate operation at the Evangelical hospital, Chicago. Marcia is still wearing dark glasses taped on to avoid any bright light from striking her eyes, but these will be removed in a short time.

The Answer to Power Socialism

Can free enterprise meet the expanding needs of this great nation? A good answer to that is provided by an announcement made some time ago by the Pacific Gas and Electrical Company, which serves a large part of the State of California.

During the next five years, the announcement said, this utility system will spend the gigantic sum of $300,000,000 to build new power plants and to increase the capacity of others, to expand its transmission and distribution facilities, and to add to its gas capacity. This program, the company believes, is more than adequate to meet all demand—but if it is not, the company is prepared to appropriate still more money for expansion.

Those who believe that only the government is capable of constructing new electric power facilities sufficient to handle our needs should ponder a while over this. They should, furthermore, consider the great differences between private power development and socialized power development. The second robs state and local governments of great tax resources—even as it robs the nation of the fruits of individual initiative. It places a heavy, direct, and unnecessary burden on every taxpayer. The first, by contrast, creates great new taxable assets as it grows, and bears a large part of the cost of all government. The PG&E, for example, pays over 50 per cent of all the county taxes in some California counties—and pays 25 to 50 per cent in a number of others. Its total tax bill last year—Federal, state and local—was more than $38,000,000. And that bill will grow as its expansion program moves ahead.

Utilities in every section of this country will meet the present and future needs of their areas, precisely as this California company is doing—if they are freed of the specter of destructive, subsidized, tax-free government competition. It can be said categorically that there is no need whatsoever for more government power. Power from existing government plants can be distributed, at minimum cost to the consumer, by the private companies. Socialism is an expensive and useless luxury—even as it is the most dangerous of precedents for undermining our free form of government.

The Sources of Energy

There has been some rather loose talk to the effect that coal may become obsolete as a source of industrial energy. Such opinions are based on the fact that other sources of heat and power have made remarkable strides in recent years, due in part, at least, to the policy of powerful mine labor unions to call strikes to enforce wage demands, thus largely destroying the price advantage of coal over competitive fuels.

However, this country has a great and growing need for all its fuels, and coal will continue to be one of the most important. A large part of the country depends on coal to manufacture electric power. Coal is a basic ingredient in the production of steel. The coal burning locomotives still haul most of our trains, despite an increase in the number of diesels on the lines. Remarkable progress has been made in developing a coal-burner of greatly increased efficiency, economy, and cleanliness.

Of much greater importance, coal is the most abundant of our known energy resources. Our coal deposits are almost infinite in extent, and the geologists say they are sufficient to last thousands of years. Their potential importance has been enormously increased by recent discoveries of means by which gasoline may be made from coal. And experiments, whose ultimate success seems assured, are now underway to use coal in powdered form.

It is always a mistake to say that one form of energy will turn out to be more important than another. The safest assumption is that every kind of energy we possess—coal, oil, water, and ultimately, atomic power—will play vital roles in the world of tomorrow.

Government Compulsion Isn't Insurance

Those who advocate a system of compulsory, government-administered, prepaid medical care, to be paid for by another payroll tax on workers and employers, frequently argue that this is just a form of insurance similar to life insurance. That claim was well answered sometime ago by Senator Taft, when he said: "The fact is that this is not insurance. It is a plan for government administration of all medical care, supported by a tax on payrolls. There is no difference between a payroll tax and any other tax. This can't be insurance if a man has no option except to pay for it."

The very essence of insurance is that it is voluntary. No one makes you buy it. The choice of policy, company, and type of coverage is purely up to you. Government domination of medicine would obviously destroy all freedom of choice. You'd pay, as you now pay for social security, whether you want it or not. You'd take, in return, whatever the government wanted to give you.

Worst of all would be the effect on the medical profession. The doctor's livelihood and future would depend upon his pleasing the political administrators of the program. They would make all the important decisions. The cost of administration would be ever-increasing. The ultimate result would be poorer and more costly medical care.

Voluntary prepaid medicine is solving the problem for employed people. Federal aid, to be administered through the states, can solve the problem for the indigent. We need less, not more, government domination of our lives.

Fire Heads the Disaster Roll

W. E. Mallalieu, General Manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, has called upon all sections of industry for better compliance with safety standards, in order to prevent such disasters as the fires and explosions which razed Texas City, killing hundreds of people, injuring thousands, and causing an enormous property loss.

His organization, he said, "will do everything in its power to meet the challenge of fire in this age of increasingly hazardous chemical compounds. For this we are speeding up our research into industry's fire problems."

"But we call on all industry, management and workers alike, for wholehearted compliance with all safety standards that are or may be promulgated."

The American Red Cross has stated that fires are responsible for more disaster relief calls than all other causes, including tornado, hurricane, and flood, combined. Furthermore, fire is often a contributing factor to loss of life even in floods and tornados. It has become one of the greatest killers—even as it is one of the greatest destroyers of property.

No community and no home is safe from fire. Eternal vigilance is necessary. The ghastly disaster at Texas City, like the hotel fires of last year, should have focused the attention of the entire country on this terrible menace.

Milk Cows Decline
The number of milk cows on farms has been declining since late in 1944. A slower rate of decline and perhaps a halt in reduction of cow numbers are expected by agricultural experts.

Distinctive Oaks

In growing red oak and white oak trees, the two types are identifiable by such botanical characteristics as the form of fruit, flower and leaf, as well as appearance of the bark. In the form of lumber the difference is apparent only under a magnifying glass.

ILLINOIS BELL aims for new rural record

We've set a 1947 goal of 12,000 additional telephones in the farm and rural areas served by Illinois Bell. And that's more than 1,000 above our 1946 all-time record.

In our three-year, $3,000,000 farm and rural program, we're not just trying to bring service to as many families as we can. We're also doing our best to make that service better than ever. More customers have fewer rings of other parties on their lines. "Turn-the-crank" model telephones are being replaced by more modern instruments. Hundreds of miles of rural wire are being added—more switchboards are being installed.

We intend to keep at it until we can make your service the finest ever... until we can provide service for everyone who wants it.

Uncle Sam Says

Ponder these facts, niece and nephew. In 1937 many Americans bought the Series C Savings Bond, similar in every respect to the present Series E bond which millions of you are now buying regularly through payroll savings or at your bank or post office.

During 1947 the Treasury Department will hand over $4 for every $5 these wise Americans laid away 10 years ago. The total payoff in interest is a staggering sum—over $100,000,000. Nearly 75 per cent of all buyers of Series C bonds held on to them for the full 10 years. You have the opportunity now to join your fellow Americans who will share in the Treasury Department's 1957 payoff of an extra dollar for every $3 you invest now in Savings Bonds.

Uncle Sam Says

One of the fine old American customs is to begin a new year with a lot of resolutions. Some we keep. Others we make with the intention of breaking them to the delight of ourselves and friends. You're being a good American to resolve to do something or other from this day on until eternity. You're being a better, wiser American to make a solemn resolution to strengthen the future security of yourself and family.

Resolve to put some of your income regularly into U. S. Savings Bonds, which pay $1 for every $2 invested in 10 years.

Land of Lakes
Michigan has 11,037 inland lakes, using the definition that a lake is "a body of standing water occupying a basin and lacking continuity with the seas." Approximately half of the lakes are less than 10 acres in surface area and only 19 have more than 5,000 acres. Average size is about 60 acres.

Gardening Hint
Before working in the garden, if you work gloveless, scrape your finger nails over a cake of soap. The soap will prevent dirt from getting under your nails and can be easily washed out after the gardening job is completed.

Sacrificial Animal
One tribe of India sacrifices and eats dogs at certain ceremonies, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, because, they reason, the dog being the cleverest of all animals is therefore the most gratifying to the spirits.

FACT AND SCRIPTURE

Can we lightly regard the unusual amount of tragedies of late. Severe storms, floods, earthquakes, train disasters, plane crashes and auto accidents.

We look to insurance companies to cover the loss of property but can we insure against the loss of humanity?

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is long suffering to usward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.

Blind Recluse Found Dead in Mystery House

Death Ovens Home Crammed
With Dilapidated Litter
Of 40 Years.

NEW YORK.—The ramshackle fifth avenue mansion which has shielded New York's fabulous Collyer brothers from the prying outside world for 40 years was revealed as the tomb of the 75-year-old Homer, as well as his brother, Langley.

Blind, crippled Homer Collyer, once an admirably lawyer and holder of A.M. and L.L.D. degrees from Columbia university, was found sitting on his haunches in a second-floor bedroom of the eerie, debris-packed home.

A physician said he might have been dead a week. He wore a crumbling gray bathrobe.

Police broke into the cob-webbed home after receiving a tip that "there's a dead man in 2078 Fifth avenue."

They speculated that the call might have come from Langley, the only one of the brothers to have been seen in the outside world for many years. He holds Columbia university degrees in chemistry and mechanical engineering.

A neighbor said she had seen Langley sitting on the stoop of the house.

Litter of Decades.

The first search through the brownstone mansion, crammed with the litter of decades, left police exhausted and gasping.

The searchers, occasionally coming outside for fresh air, later found the body of Langley, caught in one of the many booby traps found everywhere among the piles of refuse.

The recluses had been reported to be extremely wealthy, through property holdings which were purported to have included stretches of New York's waterfront.

By legend, their mansion was stocked with antiques and items of artistic worth.

But the first articles uncovered by police and thrown out the long-shuttered windows did not bear out the stories.

Countless bales of ancient newspapers, an old automobile seat, a battered radio cabinet, cartons of junk, a dilapidated baby carriage frame—these were the sort of things tossed out.

Find Booby Traps.

Police reported that the crude system of booby traps hampered their inspection of the three-story mansion.

Wires were rigged in such a way that boxes and bales tumbled down when a foot caught in one of the strands.

They said the house was without heat, electricity, gas or running water. On the first two floors there was not a trace of furniture on which anyone could lie or sit down.

Crates blocked all the staircases, police said, and the rooms were so full of cartons that only tiny passageways permitted access to them.

Both brothers were small, neat men, with drooping mustaches. Langley made one of his last known excursions into the outside world last July, when he appeared in court against a man accused of burglarizing a home owned by the Collyers.

At that time, Langley said his brother had been crippled since 1930 and blind since 1940. He said he was four years younger than Homer and was determined to outlive him so that he could care for him until his death.

Five Hooded Bandits Escape

With Company's Payroll

CHICAGO.—Five hooded bandits, one of whom carried a sub-machine gun, held up a driver for the Oscar Mayer Meat Packing company and took $16,000 in cash and $485,000 in non-negotiable checks, representing the company's payroll.

Company officials said the money was being driven to a bank by a company guard when an automobile drove alongside and blocked the company's car.

Two or three men converged on the company car on foot. One of them shoved a sub-machine gun into the driver's ribs while the others took his gun and the money.

The driver was forced to halt when the driver of the bandit car leveled a gun at him through the window, officials said.

Police said the gunmen wore hooded sweaters and drove a dark automobile.

Shunned Wife Found Shot;

'Don't Blame My Husband'

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Vesta Mae Swearingen, 35, was in serious condition at County hospital after she shot herself in the head apparently because she could not win back her estranged husband.

"Don't blame my husband," she told police. "I knew I couldn't get him back and I wanted to end it." She was found shot in her room. Police found a .25 caliber pistol nearby.

Mrs. Swearingen said she came to Chicago from California recently. Reconciliation efforts failed, she added, after meeting her husband, Olin.

Police Hunt Prankster Who Flew With Engine

GAINESVILLE, FLA.—Police were on the lookout for a prankster who stole an Atlantic Coast Line switch engine here and in an attempted getaway collided head-on with an idle locomotive after cruising more than a mile across town.

The impromptu engineer was described by railroad men as wearing khaki clothes and being slightly crippled. A battered army cap was found in the cab of the engine.

Neither of the engines was seriously damaged.

Record Rail Travel Sure This Summer

Large Increase Expected In All Transportation.

CHICAGO.—With plenty of coach space available for today's traveler, railroads are preparing for the greatest summer travel in history.

Coach travel has decreased more than 25 per cent from a year ago, according to officials of the major carriers.

Pullman reservations were rolled "tight." No excess space is available.

While figures haven't been compiled on the number of passengers going South last winter, traffic men said the total easily equaled the boom figures of last season.

The same held true for persons traveling to the west coast for the winter.

Coach accommodations are freer now than at any time since 1940. This is true generally even where such space is reserved.

Exceptions to this include North Western's streamliners to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Reservations on these trains are sold out about 45 days ahead of the departure date.

Pullman space on crack trains still is in such demand that reservations are necessary 10 days to two weeks in advance.

The time margin for accommodations on slower trains runs a week or less, although even this space is not easy to get.

Spokesmen for seven lines said advance inquiries point to a record summer for the railroads.

All travelers will be accommodated, they said, since a steady flow of new cars and engines places the carriers in a better position to meet the demand.

Farm Girl Kills Herself

Over Love for Sister's Baby

SPRINGFIELD, MO.—Her love for her sister's baby was believed responsible for the flaming suicide of a 24-year-old farm girl who tried to kill herself by poison, gun blast and fire.

The third attempt succeeded, when Patsy Lorene Price died of burns at a hospital here. Her father, Ralph Price, 58, said she poured kerosene over her clothing yesterday and touched a match to it at their Long Lane, Mo., farm.

Price doused her flaming garments with water pumped from a well. He said she knocked him down when he first tried to put out the flames. During the melee the house caught fire and was partly destroyed.

Price and his daughter lived alone at the farm. He said recently she had been caring for her sister's baby.

He said he thought she was thrown into emotional turmoil when the sister came to the farm and took the child away. She had been dependent for several weeks, he said.

Earlier, Price said, she tried to shoot herself with a shotgun as she lay in bed, but the blast missed. She also drank some lye water, he said, but didn't swallow enough to cause serious injury.

Father of 11 Gets Life Term

In Slaying of His Mistress

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—A 59-year-old father of 11 children, charged with slaying a 36-year-old divorcee who had borne him a child, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Rosario A. Millinazzo pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree in the slaying of Mrs. Catherine C. Nordlie of Lowell.

Last July the court was told, Mrs. Nordlie attempted to end the relationship and the bricklayer objected.

On August 30 her body was found at a sewer outlet in Lowell. She had been shot three times through the head, and her arms and legs were broken.

Woman Sentenced to Prison

For Theft of $70,000 Gems

NEWARK, N. J.—Mrs. Mollie Levin, New York beauty shop operator, was sentenced by Essex County Judge Joseph E. Conlon to two consecutive indeterminate terms of imprisonment at the Clinton Reformatory for Women.

The 42-year-old defendant had been convicted of the theft of $70,000 in jewels from the Montclair home of Curt Forstmann, wealthy textile manufacturer.

Mrs. Levin cried silently into her handkerchief. Her counsel, Anthony Colandra, said she persisted in protestations of her innocence.

SHORT STORY Dream of Youth

By JOHN ROWLEY

THEY were sitting on a bench in the park, the man and the woman, and the sun, shining through the pattern of leaves and branches above them, formed a network of light and shadows almost like some gossamer fairy lace.

The woman was about thirty-three or four, blonde with dimples, and a wide, good humored mouth. The man, who was about the same age, dark with good features and graying hair, leaned towards her.

"Do you remember, Jean, the first time we kissed?" he asked tenderly.

The girl laughed a little and there was a faint haze back of her eyes. "How could I forget," she said. "We were so young . . . and shy! I didn't know what I would say if you asked me . . . and I was on pins and needles for fear you wouldn't. They were good days, George. Happy days."

George reached over and patted her hand. "They were," he said. "They were wonderful days and I was so much in love with you."

It spoiled my appetite! To me you were the most beautiful thing ever come down to earth."

He laughed, his voice deep and resonant. "And you're still pretty nice!" They were silent for a moment, each thinking the thoughts that these memories brought up. Finally the man laughed again. "Do you remember our last high school dance?"

The man, lost in thought, gazed out over the green expanse of the park. Far off he could see tall buildings rising out of a sea of billow green, but he wasn't seeing any of that. Instead he was seeing a tall, old fashioned building in a small town a long way from the city.

"Well, goodbye, Jean," he said.

There was a blare of music coming from the building . . . dance music, a number popular at the time. He saw couples getting out of cars and some arriving on foot. Inside, the huge door of what was the gymnasium swelled and heaved with couples packed close together.

He remembered the laughter and the music and something came into his throat and he wanted to cry. The woman sensed it too and she put a slender, graceful hand on his arm.

"Do you remember that dance, our graduation dance? I can see you now. You had on a light blue evening gown that came all the way to the floor and you wore a corsage of some kind of white flowers. The light in your hair made it look all gold and you were the most beautiful creature in the world."

She laughed, entering into the spirit of the thing. "And Mr. Weeks, the assistant principal, asked me to dance and I let him have one dance . . . after all, he was the assistant principal."

"AND after the dance," he went on. "The rest of the crowd went down to eat, but you and I went to the little lunch counter around the corner and had some coffee and afterwards we walked home. It was exactly three blocks away. . . . I think I can remember every step . . . every depression in the sidewalk. And when we got to your house we stood on the steps a long time, not saying anything, just looking at the night . . . and everything was golden around us."

He paused for a moment, staring straight ahead. "And then you said you had to go in . . . and you kissed me. . . ." He laughed again and turned to look at the woman beside him. "I floated home on a cloud that night!"

She smiled and they sat there, silent, for a time, contemplating the memories they had conjured up out of the past.

At last they got up and the man looked at the woman beside him and smiled.

"Well, goodbye, Jean," he said. "It was wonderful seeing you again, but I'll have to be running along now. I'm supposed to meet my wife in front of the Metropolitan in about 10 minutes."

She looked at her watch and gasped. "Me, too," she exclaimed. "Why, it's almost five o'clock and I haven't finished my shopping yet. I'm afraid my husband's supper will be late tonight. Good-by!"

They hurried off across the park . . . in opposite directions! Released by WNU Features

Tragedy Bares Miser's Hoard Of Cash, Bonds

'Poor' Recluse Left an Estate
Of $150,000; Blind Sister
Shared Poverty.

CHICAGO.—In a squalid flat where August Richter, 79, and his blind sister had lived for the last seven years in conditions akin to poverty, police found an old trunk containing a hoard of money, stocks and bonds valued at more than $43,000.

The hoard was discovered when police were called to the home after Richter had suffered a heart attack. He died later in a hospital. The sister, Amelia, 89, was suffering from a severe case of malnutrition and was taken to a hospital.

With the hoard were two keys for safety deposit boxes which yielded additional securities which brought the total to approximately $150,000. No one could be found who knew much about the Richters.

Detectives Thomas Edwards and Al Candyba were called to the Richter flat by Isadore Parich, the second floor tenant, who said Richter's sister had crawled upstairs to his door to implore him to call help for her brother.

'All We Have.'

After the brother had been removed Amelia said to Edwards "come with me." She led him to a trunk in Richter's room. "This is all we have," murmured the aged woman. With feeble hands she opened the trunk and in it was found $3,000 in currency, stocks and bonds.

Later, from her bed in the hospital where she is undergoing treatment for malnutrition, Amelia told all she knew about her brother's hoard.

Amelia said that her brother some years ago sold two farms, one for $20,000 and one for $17,000, and that she understood he made some money in the stock market, but she didn't know how much.

Tells of Farm Sales.

Amelia said that her father, August, died at the age of 36 on a farm in Livingston county west of Pontiac, and that her mother, Annie, died at the age of 37 on a farm in the same county near Long Point. She also recalled living on a farm in Woodford county near El Paso.

In the Richter flat Rubens found no records indicating stock market transactions by Richter. A powerful, dank odor filled the apartment. Rags, clothing and papers were strewn on the floor. Dirty shades hung crookedly in the windows.

On a table were half a dozen dirty glasses, a knife and a loaf of stale bread. A red velvet covered album filled with tintype photographs offered few clues to the family history. A German Bible contained no listings of births and deaths.

Spaniel Keeps Lonely Vigil

By River; Master Is Missing

RED WING, MINN.—In a tumble-down shanty on Wisconsin island, in the headwaters of the Mississippi river, sits a little dog keeping a cold and lonely vigil.

Rascal, a cocker spaniel, is waiting for the return of his master, fisherman George Brenn, whose body is believed submerged somewhere in the icy river.

Police-believe Brenn broke through the thin ice while walking over the frozen sloughs surrounding the island, which lies between Mud lake and the Mississippi river.

When they broke into Brenn's shanty, authorities found his dog locked inside. Rascal had gnawed part way through the door in an attempt to escape. He had lived on cereals and pancake flour torn from packages on the shelves.

When police put Rascal into a boat and started back to Red Wing, the dog jumped from the boat and swam back to the shanty.

U. S. Takes Over $13,000

Paid by Japs for Spy Work

WASHINGTON.—Attorney General Clark announced that the government had taken possession of $13,000 which an agent for the Japanese government gave to a resident of New York City to obtain pre-Pearl Harbor information in this country.

Clark said the money was in the possession of Mrs. Velva H. Dickinson, the owner of a doll shop who, he said, was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in January, 1944, and convicted of violating the censorship statute.

Clark said that "it was through letters about dolls that information to the Japanese was to be transmitted."

Playmate Drowns Boy of 4;

Says 'I Won't Do It Again'

NANTY BAR, WALES.—Four-year-old Glyndwr Owen Parfitt, his eyes alight with pride in his new shoes, ran out to play and didn't return. After dark searchers led by his father, a coal miner, found the child, his hands and feet bound with the laces of his new shoes, in the River Afan, 100 yards from the family cottage.

A 9-year-old playmate, protesting "I won't do it again," was charged with murder in juvenile court.

Iodine Is Effective
Iodine is an effective weapon against sleeping sickness of horses. Research men have found iodine to be a very valuable aid in helping save the lives of horses ill with the disease. Stricken horses treated with sodium iodine in these experiments had both a higher and a faster rate of recovery.

Increase Yields
Scientific breeding of sheep increased the average wool yield in the United States from 2.4 pounds a head to 6.2 pounds, between 1850 and 1900. Between 1910 and 1940 the yield of milk per cow was increased from 3,779 to 4,497 pounds yearly.

Bad Spellers Convict

Man in Forgery Case
HAMILTON, TEX.—A district court jury listened to a forgery case and returned this verdict: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and assess his punishment at two years."
"Well, gentlemen," said Judge R. B. Cross, "you should amend the verdict by adding the words 'in the state penitentiary.'"
"We knew that ought to be in there, Judge," one juror said, "but there wasn't anyone on the jury who knew how to spell penitentiary."

Hungry Crows Raid Sheep in EnglandScarcity of Usual Food Supply Makes Birds Ravenous.

LONDON.—Crows, magpies and starlings, the "personality kids" among reprobate birds, are usually not considered dangerous.

As a relatively obscure by-product of frozen Britain's recent industrial crisis, however, these birds began to attack sheep in large numbers and killed quite a few of them last winter.

When snow blankets the ground and ice covers open water, birds either change their eating habits or starve. Then even the meek become ferocious. Thus 12 swans boarded a lightship in a ravenous search for food after 14 days of fasting, and forced crew and master below decks until they were fed table scraps.

The crow, citizen of the world, is found on every continent, and usually is regarded as a pest, but not a dangerous one. A British semi-official mission has studied the crow for the past two years to find out whether, in impartial judgment, his good and bad habits balance.

Recent reports from the village of Louth, Lincolnshire, where snow was blown into 18-foot drifts, were all bad, as regards the crow.

Lincolnshire is the home of the famous black-faced, white-legged Lincolnshire breed of sheep, liked the world over for its hardiness and wool production.

During the hard winter, strong-beaked crows, magpies and starlings, violent from hunger, attacked flocks of sheep. They fluttered down on the woolly backs of the animals and dug through the hide into the warm fat underneath.

Many sheep not killed outright were so wounded they had to be destroyed.

But the gravest danger was not immediate loss of sheep, which was small compared to the 25 million head grazing over the island. It was the danger that these birds might develop a permanent liking for live mutton. It is not so nebulous a fear as it might appear on the surface. It has happened before—in New Zealand, for instance.

Major Crime Set New Record For United States in 1946

WASHINGTON.—Major crime reached a new high in 1946 with a felony being committed every 18.7 seconds, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported.

There was an all-time total of 1,685,203 cases, an increase of 7.6 per cent over 1945.
Hoover said that "during the average day 36 persons were slain, 33 raped and 185 others feloniously assaulted. Every day also brought reports of 172 robberies, 981 burglaries, 630 automobile thefts and 2,580 miscellaneous larcenies."

There was an increase of 23.3 per cent in murder and non-negligent manslaughter, 15.7 per cent in robbery, 5 per cent in rape and 12.9 per cent in aggravated assault. Larcenies were up 8.8 per cent and burglaries 11.3 per cent.

Automobile thefts dropped 4.8 per cent.

Public Rushes to Aid Child Requiring Expensive Serum

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—A black-haired little girl who tells you she feels fine is receiving a costly serum which might save her life—through quick and generous public response to her plight.

Donations in cash and pledges neared $2,000 to buy serum for Marilyn Muzzurco, 4, who otherwise might die from nephrosis, a kidney ailment.

Three Burglars Are Slain by Police in Planned Robbery

PROVIDENCE.—Three men were shot and killed by four police officers who had been tipped off to a planned robbery of a Providence restaurant.

Police identified the dead men as Joseph Conti, 22, of Providence; William J. Mulse, 21, of Stoneham, Mass.; and Joseph R. Fitzsimmons, 35, of Groveland, Mass.

Russian Still Going Strong On His 142nd Birthday

LONDON.—Passing his 142nd birthday anniversary, Chiksen, a collective farmer in the Russian village of Sadovo, in Stavropol, is "still going strong," according to a Moscow radio broadcast heard here.
Chiksen's father lived to be 127 and his mother 116, the broadcast said.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCKPROS AND CONS ON "BANGS" VACCINATION

In animal medicine, just as in human medicine, there are always some people who foolishly believe that it

Brucellosis vaccination is not a "cure all."

A small application of some remedy is a good thing, a large application would be even better.

Unfortunately, that seems to have happened with respect to vaccination against brucellosis of cattle. When veterinarians began to obtain good results with vaccinating calves against this disease, some cattle owners heard about it and decided to go in and vaccinate everything on the place—regardless of whether vaccination was indicated or not. Naturally some results were just the opposite of what was hoped for.

But, even worse, some owners also jumped to the conclusion that if brucellosis vaccination would work in the case of calves, it would work, too, for adult cattle. The results in some of these cases have been even more serious. It is time that the facts were stated clearly—that vaccination against brucellosis (either of calves or adult animals) should never be done without first having a thorough herd checkup, a study of the individual problem, and a weighing of the pros and cons as applied to the individual, local condition.

The place where vaccination has been of greatest value, thus far, is in the so-called "problem" herds, where it has been impossible to eliminate brucellosis by the test-and-slaughter method. In such cases, adult vaccination may sometimes be used along with calfhood vaccination to "soften" the losses caused by the disease. Vaccination has also been helpful, sometimes, when an abortion "storm" occurs. On the negative side is the fact that adult vaccination makes cattle positive to the blood test for brucellosis. If one is selling raw milk, such milk may be barred from city sale. The best answer to brucellosis seems to depend on individual circumstances and the findings of the local veterinarian.

Man in Forgery Case
HAMILTON, TEX.—A district court jury listened to a forgery case and returned this verdict: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and assess his punishment at two years."
"Well, gentlemen," said Judge R. B. Cross, "you should amend the verdict by adding the words 'in the state penitentiary.'"
"We knew that ought to be in there, Judge," one juror said, "but there wasn't anyone on the jury who knew how to spell penitentiary."

Hungry Crows Raid Sheep in EnglandScarcity of Usual Food Supply Makes Birds Ravenous.

LONDON.—Crows, magpies and starlings, the "personality kids" among reprobate birds, are usually not considered dangerous.

As a relatively obscure by-product of frozen Britain's recent industrial crisis, however, these birds began to attack sheep in large numbers and killed quite a few of them last winter.

When snow blankets the ground and ice covers open water, birds either change their eating habits or starve. Then even the meek become ferocious. Thus 12 swans boarded a lightship in a ravenous search for food after 14 days of fasting, and forced crew and master below decks until they were fed table scraps.

The crow, citizen of the world, is found on every continent, and usually is regarded as a pest, but not a dangerous one. A British semi-official mission has studied the crow for the past two years to find out whether, in impartial judgment, his good and bad habits balance.

Recent reports from the village of Louth, Lincolnshire, where snow was blown into 18-foot drifts, were all bad, as regards the crow.

Lincolnshire is the home of the famous black-faced, white-legged Lincolnshire breed of sheep, liked the world over for its hardiness and wool production.

During the hard winter, strong-beaked crows, magpies and starlings, violent from hunger, attacked flocks of sheep. They fluttered down on the woolly backs of the animals and dug through the hide into the warm fat underneath.

Many sheep not killed outright were so wounded they had to be destroyed.

But the gravest danger was not immediate loss of sheep, which was small compared to the 25 million head grazing over the island. It was the danger that these birds might develop a permanent liking for live mutton. It is not so nebulous a fear as it might appear on the surface. It has happened before—in New Zealand, for instance.

Major Crime Set New Record For United States in 1946

WASHINGTON.—Major crime reached a new high in 1946 with a felony being committed every 18.7 seconds, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported.

There was an all-time total of 1,685,203 cases, an increase of 7.6 per cent over 1945.

Hoover said that "during the average day 36 persons were slain, 33 raped and 185 others feloniously assaulted. Every day also brought reports of 172 robberies, 981 burglaries, 630 automobile thefts and 2,580 miscellaneous larcenies."

There was an increase of 23.3 per cent in murder and non-negligent manslaughter, 15.7 per cent in robbery, 5 per cent in rape and 12.9 per cent in aggravated assault. Larcenies were up 8.8 per cent and burglaries 11.3 per cent.

Automobile thefts dropped 4.8 per cent.

Public Rushes to Aid ChildRequiring Expensive Serum

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—A black-haired little girl who tells you she feels fine is receiving a costly serum which might save her life—through quick and generous public response to her plight.

Donations in cash and pledges neared $2,000 to buy serum for Marilyn Muzzurco, 4, who otherwise might die from nephrosis, a kidney ailment.

Three Burglars Are Slain by Police in Planned Robbery

PROVIDENCE.—Three men were shot and killed by four police officers who had been tipped off to a planned robbery of a Providence restaurant.

Police identified the dead men as Joseph Conti, 22, of Providence; William J. Mulise, 21, of Stoneham, Mass.; and Joseph R. Fitzsimmons, 35, of Groveland, Mass.

Russian Still Going Strong

On His 142nd Birthday

LONDON.—Passing his 142nd birthday anniversary, Chliken, a collective farmer in the Russian village of Sadovo, in Stavropol, is "still going strong," according to a Moscow radio broadcast heard here.

Chliken's father lived to be 137 and his mother 116, the broadcast said.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCKPROS AND CONS ON "BANGS" VACCINATION

In animal medicine, just as in human medicine, there are always some people who foolishly believe that it

a small application of some remedy is a good thing, a large application would be even better.

Unfortunately, that seems to have happened with respect to vaccination against brucellosis of cattle. When veterinarians began to obtain good results with vaccinating calves against this disease, some cattle owners heard about it and decided to go in and vaccinate everything on the place—regardless of whether vaccination was indicated or not. Naturally some results were just the opposite of what was hoped for.

But, even worse, some owners also jumped to the conclusion that if brucellosis vaccination would work in the case of calves, it would work, too, for adult cattle. The results in some of these cases have been even more serious. It is time that the facts were stated clearly—that vaccination against brucellosis (either of calves or adult animals) should never be done without first having a thorough herd checkup, a study of the individual problem, and a weighing of the pros and cons as applied to the individual, local condition.

The place where vaccination has been of greatest value, thus far, is in the so-called "problem" herds, where it has been impossible to eliminate brucellosis by the test-and-slaughter method. In such cases, adult vaccination may sometimes be used along with calfhood vaccination to "soften" the losses caused by the disease. Vaccination has also been helpful, sometimes, when an abortion "storm" occurs. On the negative side is the fact that adult vaccination makes cattle positive to the blood test for brucellosis. If one is selling raw milk, such milk may be barred from city sale. The best answer to brucellosis seems to depend on individual circumstances and the findings of the local veterinarian.

Blaze Routes
Army engineers found the five most feasible railroad routes to the Pacific coast in exploring the unknown west in the 1850s. Today passengers on railroad streamliners are carried smoothly over the mountains on lines laid out by the engineers. The fifth route is used, by sections, by local lines.

Glen Wells, of Burlington, Wis., called at Gordon Wells home Sunday afternoon. Everett Wells returned home with him for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Thompson and daughter, Miss Helen, went to Chicago Saturday afternoon, where they met Philip Gould and daughter, Miss Vivien, of Rockford, at the Union Station. In the evening Vivien and Helen left on a two weeks vacation trip to Three Nations via the Happiness Tour special train.
